

Security Council Committee

In this committee you will find issues related mainly to International Security and International Peace. During our 2016 model , you will be compelled to dive into and look at real current issues around the globe, such as terrorism and transnational organized crime (TOC). It is your duty, as delegates, to address these problematics, discuss your personal viewpoints and perspectives and, as a whole, work together in order to find viable solutions that will lead to the hopeful decrease and even eradication of these international matters.

Topic A: Threats to International Peace and increase of tension in Europe due to Terrorist Attacks: This issue has left many people around the world both astonished and concerned. ISIS, as the largest, most powerful and well-known terrorist group, has been responsible throughout the last two years for an overall estimate of four different attacks in Europe (Paris and Brussels included). Being a matter of crucial importance present nowadays , it is a matter of great importance to address at the moment. We will focus on the attacks and the consequences they are leading to, such as: the propagation of fear and being in crowded public places amongst civilians, tighter borders and more strict vigilance systems, the crucial efficiency of transferring goods across national boundaries and prevailing manufacturers on consistently shipping completed units for sale abroad.

Topic B: The Threat of Transnational Organized Crime to International Security: Is a topic that has been present for many decades now. Transnational organized crime poses a significant and growing threat to national and international security, with dire implications for public safety, public health, democratic institutions, and economic stability across the globe. Since it is a problem that affects many scopes of our world, we would like the focus to be on the civilians of each nation that suffer daily some kind of abuse due to organized crime in its respective country. From the Yakuza to the Mexican Drug Cartels, as delegates, your job is to find a way to protect at all costs, the lives of the innocent civilians that bear no responsibility over these actions, yet are the ones who suffer the consequences.

We truly hope that these topics concern you on the same level they have concerned us, so we can be on the same page and you can come with a mind wide-open to solutions, involvement and other points of view. We look forward to meeting and having the pleasure of working side by side , these three days., We are at your full disposition regarding any matters. We hope to see you soon.
